NORTH CROSS SCHOOL LEGACY CAMPAIGN

“REFLECTING WHO WE ARE AND WHAT WE CAN BECOME”

We are forever grateful to our Board of Trustees and Steering Committee for creating the perfect environment in which our students can learn and grow. Our campus is a reflection of the caring leadership of those who have set forth the North Cross School legacy as we look toward our bright future.

FROM OUR LEGACY CAMPAIGN CHAIRS

To our North Cross family,

Thank you for believing in North Cross School and for choosing to help chart its future.

We are proud of what we have accomplished together. Because of your investment in the Legacy Campaign, we have taken North Cross to a higher level, just as we had hoped. Something that is regularly said by students and parents is that our teachers truly care about each and every student. Our Legacy Campaign givers have echoed that care for our students and have, through their gifts, added to the rich legacy that distinguishes our school.

As chairs of the Legacy Campaign, we are tremendously grateful for the leadership of our Campaign Steering Committee and for everyone's generous support of this historic effort. This was a campaign of excitement and joy and it has transformed our campus. It has also further solidified North Cross School as an exceptional independent school that will continue to support the Roanoke Valley's economic trajectory.

When we first started this campaign, we were excited about what we would accomplish; and our excitement grew when early commitments and very significant gifts gave us the opportunity to stretch for more. Raising over $13 million dollars in the Legacy Campaign is the most significant capital campaign in North Cross history, and it is also one of the largest campaigns in the valley. We can all share in the satisfaction of our collective accomplishments.

What the Legacy Campaign actually delivered exceeded our expectations — that our facilities would be a match for the exceptional education our students receive. You, too, can see and sense the excitement and energy that our new learning spaces and outdoor areas have created. Our new facilities will enhance the educational experience of every child in every grade. When you walk our grounds and see where our students learn, you can appreciate the seriousness of purpose this campaign achieved.

Our students, faculty and staff are making full use of the totally renovated and brand new Alma Mater Hall which is home to the new Talfourd H. Kemper Library, new Susan D. Wenk Student Commons, expanded and renovated Fishburn Theater, new Prillaman Learning Center and CrossWalk wing along with the new and renovated Willis Hall classrooms and Lugar Administrative suite, Ellett Forum, Graeff Pavillion, new Garrett Administrative Suite, new Beck Board Room, expanded meeting and study spaces, and our new Lower School play and green areas. During the pandemic, we have been thankful for the additional indoor and outdoor spaces which enabled us to be socially distanced, and for enhancements to our air filtration systems that aided in keeping our community healthy.

We called this the "Legacy Campaign — Building on Excellence". Our generous giving family has embraced the spirit of both "legacy" and "building on excellence" and, just as our faculty and coaches share their passions with their students, we are grateful for the passionate expression of support offered with every single gift and pledge. It truly is a reflection of who we are.

Thank you for joining our giving community and we hope you will join us in sharing our joy and celebration.

Our North Cross family made this happen, and we are eternally grateful to each and every one of you!

FROM THE HEAD OF SCHOOL

Dear North Cross Community,

Many of you see me crossing the street each morning with Raider, on my way to school. It is one of the great joys of working in independent school education to be so closely linked to your school and my morning “commute” is a time that I think about all things North Cross. It should not be hard to imagine my thoughts each day as I walked up the hill to the edifice that was Old Slack Hall.

Never one to keep my thoughts to myself, I frequently talked about a new campus to all that would listen. I always felt that Roanoke deserved a top independent school at a level consistent with schools in Richmond, Norfolk, and Charlottesville. More importantly, I saw the effort and dedication of our faculty and staff as they overcame our space limitations in pursuit of excellence. Like Roanoke, they deserved a campus that reflected their dedication to their craft.

But our finances delayed these dreams and it wasn’t until four years ago that George Vogel and I sat down with Craig Balzer and his design team to rethink what the campus might look like. From the rudimentary block diagrams that came out of those discussions, John Harlow, our capital campaign consultant and current North Cross parent, met with a number of prospective donors to see whether our dreams were possible. I will never forget my meeting with John when he told me that he could see “absolutely no reason” why we shouldn’t begin a campaign with the intent of completing the entire central campus project. I was gobsmacked at his finding that there was so much interest in our project to reinvent the the North Cross campus.

The decision to begin a capital campaign was accompanied by the decision to call the campaign “The Legacy Campaign.” We were cognizant that Tom Slack, two generations before us, built the Colonial Avenue campus and a generation ago, the Campaign for North Cross created a modernized Ellis and Slack

Halls. Like those before us, our new campaign looked to a bright future, creating a legacy for future generations of North Cross students.

The results are here for everyone to see. With the generosity of our lead donors, continued interest from the Beirne Carter Foundation, and the leadership of our Campaign Chairs, Russ Ellett and Eddie Smith, we successfully raised $13.2 million and completed construction on time and under budget. The Legacy Campaign is now a success story, firmly a part of the North Cross story.

Completed during the middle of the pandemic, our new facilities have welcomed more than 250 new students over the past two admissions cycles, growing our enrollment to more than 570 students. Our finances are solid, we welcome an extraordinary new Head of School, and I remain convinced, even in my last year as Head of School, that there has never been a better time to be at North Cross.

I would like to thank the entire North Cross community for their support of The Legacy Campaign. You have made a difference for our children and for Roanoke.

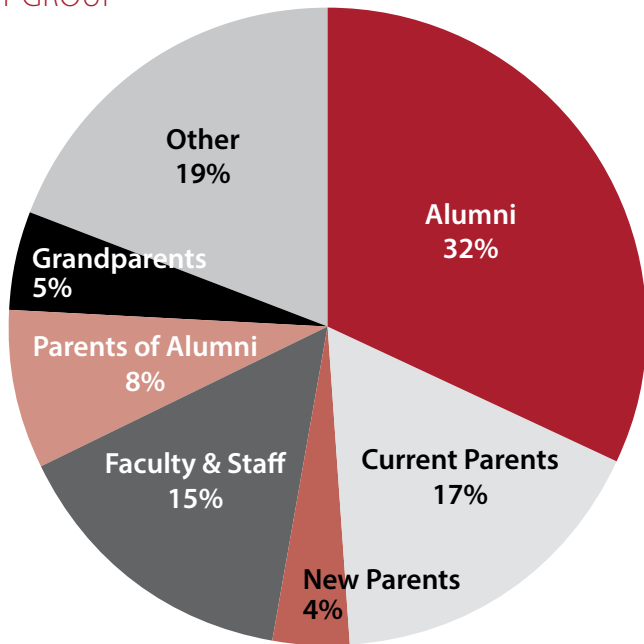

Sincerely,
